The target of 37% on all relevant sites is too prescriptive and implies that anything less will be refused.

In practice, some sites may be able to deliver 37% and some will only be able to deliver a smaller percentage or none at all depending on the value of market sales and the need for other essential infrastructure.

It is impossible to say how much affordable housing should be provided on any of the allocated sites until all other infrastructure requirements have been considered by both the developer and the Council.
