YOUR COMMENTS ON THE CASE

I would like to register my continued objection to the siting of solar panels in a very picturesque rural setting.

The visual impact will be immense, detracting from Belvoir Castle, Bottesford Church and the agricultural land which the Vale of Belvoir is known for. The peace and tranquility of such a rural setting is not the place for a large industrial solar farm.

As a country we have the ability to grow ample food for our population, we should not be so dependent on other countries. To take this land out of production would be nonsensical when there are many alternative sites that are more suitable or could be made more suitable without blighting the beautiful landscape of 'The Vale of Belvoir'.

Sometimes it is not about the 'quick buck' we should be looking at the future and the bigger picture.
